THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 28.

THE DEATH OF CAPTAIN JONES. - The latest particulars of the death of Captain Ap Catesby Roger Jones, in Selma, Ala., as given by a correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, are as follows: His son, aged seven, had a fight with a son of Mr. J. A. Harral, aged ten. The parents of little Jones believing their child to be in the wrong sent him over early the following morning with a note of apology, and a basket of fruit as a peace offering to the other little fellow, whom he had it seems gotten the better of. Little Harral, it is stated, was encouraged here to improve the opportunity to revenge himself, and another conflict took place. The children were separated, and Capt. Jones, on hearing the reception his little one had met with on his praiseworthy errand, hastened to Harral's house and rang the bell, Harral coming to the door. Capt. Jones's dying declarations are that Harral asked him if he came for a difficulty, for if he did he could have one. Capt. Jones replied that he did not come for a difficulty, but that he thought his (Harral's) conduct in the premises was contemptible, and thereupon Harral drew a pistol and shot him. Captain Jones was the oldest son of the late Gen. Roger Jones, who was for twenty five years adjutant general of the regular army. He was one of the most highly respected and beloved officers in the navy, and distinguished in the ordnance branch of that service. He resigned at the beginning of the war, went South and was executive offi cer of the Merrimae in its encounter with the Congress, Cumberland and other vessels. He served creditably through the war in various capacities. He is spoken of as a man of the most exemplary habits, modest and retiring in his manners, affectionate towards his family and friends, charitably disposed towards his enemies, if he had any, and one whose life was squared by the laws of bonor and the precepts

IMPORTANT ORDER IN BANKRUPTCY. - Oa Monday, in the U. S. District Court at Richmend, the following standing rule was entered by Judge Hughes:

"A cause in bankruptcy is not finally dis posed of until an order is entered in the District Court declaring its termination.

"After the expiration of seven months from the adjudication of bankruptey, and of two months from the final passing of the accounts of the assignee in bankruptey, under section 5,096 of the Revised Statutes, and on the certificates of the clerk and of the register is charge of the case that no proceeding in the bankruptey remains pending undetermined, and on the application of the assigned in bankruptey, or of any creditor who has proved his debt, such an order may, on notice to the bank-upt, be entered." A NUMBER of pilgrims from England and Ireland arrived recently at Monaco, on the way to Rome, and many of them, from motives of cariosity, strolled into the Kursaal to watch the gamblers at the tables. An enthusiastic pilgrim thinking that it would be well to improve the occasion by a missionary effort, began a homily on the sin of gambling. When he was requested to leave the room he declined to do so, declaring that he had a mission from heaven to purgo Monaco of its vice. The attendants then proceeded to eject him, but he suddenly drew a revolver and fired at the manager of the rooms, fortunately, missing him. The proprietor of the gambling tables, himself a devoted son of the Church, on learning that the offender was a pilgrim, magnanimously refued to hand him over to the police, but permitted him to return to his totel and depart with his fellow pilgrims for the OPENING AND CLOSING OF MAILS, - Until further notice the following will be the hours
